The BYU Sexual Harassment policy provides for the possibility of an alternative resolution process, known as an Informal Resolution. The Informal Resolution process allows the Parties to forego all or some of the formal grievance process. The goal of an Informal Resolution is to conclude the matter to the satisfaction of all parties quickly and confidentially.

Either party may request that the Title IX office facilitate an informal resolution at any time prior to a formal decision. An informal resolution may encompass a range of conflict resolution strategies, including but not limited to arbitration, mediation, restorative justice, or any other process acceptable to the Parties and the university.

At any time during the Informal Resolution process, the Title IX office may provide interim measures, which may include changes to academic, living, and working situations, or other protective measures.

Although informal resolutions can be a useful tool for some situations, it is not a one-size fits all solution. Thus, informal resolutions are never required for any party.
